PLAN G

The ProCare Plan For The Future

As Agents, it's your job to look out for customers and make sure they are getting the right protection to meet their individual needs. For many, United American's ProCare Plan F has been the product Agents turn to when offering valuable Medicare Supplement benefits. But now with so many government changes, Plan G may actually be the best choice. See why.

Plan G

Plan G provides up to $1,600 a year in at home recovery benefits.

Federal government changes have reduced the number of days for a covered hospital stay. Continued care for patients often occurs in nursing homes or in their own homes.

Plan G pays 80% of excess charges

Now that more doctors are taking assignment, paying for excess charges isn't as necessary. With Plan G, customers still have some protection without paying as much.

Plan G offers more stable premiums

By not covering the Part B deductible — which is an extra $100 in coverage — Plan G saves premium costs.

Plan G is not offered by many companies

Rate comparisons are almost eliminated and therefore, United American Agents don't have to worry as much about Plan G business being replaced by another company's plan.
